

A light to my path. Psalm 119:105

Being Thankful Gives Thanks

You can thank your way from sickness to health, financial lack to abundance, a hurtful relationship to a love-filled relationship, disappointment to achievement!

C.S. Lewis said, “We ought to give thanks for all fortune; if it is good, because it is good, if bad, because it works in us patience, humility, the contempt of this world, and the hope of our eternal country.”

Abba Father will not bring bad things on us. Most often we do it to ourselves by ourselves, or allow other people to do it, or by our foolishness in receiving the devil’s thoughts and following his directions.

Giving thanks for the bad things that happen to us prevents self-condemnation and selfishness from settling into our heart, mind, and body. We can thank Abba for making right the mess we made, for the lesson we learn from making the mess, and for His faithfulness in protecting us from making the same mistakes. Abba Father knows us better than we know ourself; yet He still loves us when we make a mess of our life in some small or big way. We can thank Him for not condemning us, forsaking us or leaving us.

There is no safer place than to be right beside Jesus in this life. In that place you will be exceedingly abundantly blessed beyond what you could ask or think. Shalom!!
