

A light to my path. Psalm 119:105

Pure Light

For two years, an angelic light guided the Magi. On a cold night, the same light shone on shepherds in fields watching over their flocks. That pure light guided both the rich and the poor to a place where God brought flesh to life from his divine word. The pure light beheld the gift of redemption resting in a manger, a cattle feeding trough, in a lowly stable. It was the threshold of a tomb that men would carve in stone in thirty-three years. The pure light walked among the people, teaching them, healing and feeding them, touching their hearts and minds with compassionate love. The darkness of the world tried in vain to extinguish the pure light. It remained on Earth until its brightness dimmed for three days and nights, giving the appearance that evil darkness had won. Then it shone again brighter than at first, casting its glorious rays on all who would receive. Our celebration of Jesus' birth has ended for another year. During the New Year, do not wait until the end to celebrate Him. Allow Jesus to walk with you daily and to guide you in all you do. When you allow Him into your life, your celebration of His birth next year will be greater, fuller and much more rewarding.

Shalom!!
